Alberta Pandas 2008 CIS Preview

The University of Alberta Pandas hockey team heads to the CIS championship tournament at the University of Ottawa as two time defending National champions.

Howie Draper's U of A team has won six CIS championship banners since 1997-98, including three straight from 2002- 2004. The team has also won nine Canada West championships, including the last seven in a row.

This season the Pandas are led by Canada West MVP Jen Newton, who finished first in the Canada West scoring race with 37 points in 20 games. Newton's line-mates on the top line include Mia Mucci (5th Canada West scoring with 25 points in 21 games) and Leah Copeland (3rd Canada West scoring with 26 points in 24 games). Alberta's production does not stop there however, as their blue-line kicks in significant points, led by Canada West All-Rookie Andrea Boras who topped all defencemen in scoring with 19 points in 24 games. Boras' partner on the back end is the towering Rayanne Reeve who was a CIS All-Rookie in 2006-07. Reeve finished the season tied with Boras in points, notching four goals and 15 assists to Boras' six goals and 14 assists.

Another rookie leads the Alberta secondary scoring charge as Alana Cabana finished tied for third in Conference scoring, picking up 26 points in her first season. The freshman plays on a line with Cami Wooster and Miranda Miller, both of whom are new to CIS hockey and finished within the top seven in Canada West scoring.

For the fourth year in a row the Pandas hosted the Manitoba Bisons in the Canada West championship series and for the fourth year in a row, Alberta swept the Bisons in two straight. The 2007-08 edition was easily the toughest competition the Pandas this season as they opened with a 2-0 win before closing the series out with a come-from-behind 4-3 triple OT win to win their seventh consecutive Canada West title.

While there is much to do about the Pandas scoring and for good reason, an often overlooked part of their game is goaltending. Veteran goaltender Holly Tarleton back-stopped the Pandas to their last two title wins, including shoot-out wins but this season Tarleton gave way to second year netminder Dana Vinge. In her first season as starter Vinge finished fourth in the Canada West with a 1.83 GAA and picked up two shut-outs along the way. In her first taste of CIS playoff experience, the sophomore goalie recorded four wins and two shut-outs, pacing Alberta to the CIS finals.

Pandas Ice Hockey History

Women's hockey was played at the University of Alberta at least as early as 1922, and to this day a picture of that team hangs in the entrance area of Clare Drake Arena. One of the earliest inter-university games came on Feb. 23, 1927, when the U of A Varsity women's hockey team opened their season with a 2-1 loss to the University of Saskatchewan in Saskatoon.

It was not until 1997 that women's hockey became a recognized CIAU varsity sport. In nine short years the University of Alberta Pandas hockey program has quickly established itself as the best in the country. Head Coach Howie Draper has guided his team to six CIS national championships (2000, 2002, 2003, 2004, 2006, 2007) and nine Canada West titles. In addition to winning "The Golden Path" trophy several times, the Pandas have also had numerous national award winners and All-Canadians, and in the process shifted the balance of power in women's hockey at the university level from the east to west.

After being a club sport on campus through the 1980s and early 1990s, the Pandas came to fruition as a varsity team in Sept. 1997, at a time during which women's hockey throughout Canada was on the rise, thanks in large part to the impending showdown between USA and Canada at the 1998 Winter Olympics.

But 1998 would be the first year that the puck would drop on a legitimate CIAU/CIS National Championship and Draper, a former Golden Bears' team captain, was given the task of building up a program.

The Pandas' inaugural training camp opened on Sept. 13, 1997 with 51 athletes vying for 21 spots. Alberta competed in the Northern Alberta Female Hockey League (NAFHL) as the Canada West would only feature a Conference Championship, but no regular season. The Pandas went 19-7-4 in the NAFHL and that prepared them for the Canada West playoffs.

After playing to a tie against UBC and Manitoba, the Pandas upset Calgary 1-0 in a shootout with Krysty Lorenz scoring the game-winner. Alberta then claimed the CW title with a 4-3-overtime victory over Manitoba in which Lorenz recorded a hat trick.

By virtue of winning the Canada West Championship, Alberta advanced to the first-ever CIAU National Championship, but was taken quite lightly. The Pandas were placed in pool with eastern powerhouses Concordia and Toronto. Draper's squad kept it close, losing 1-0 to the Varsity Blues, but was routed 7-0 by Concordia. With the loss, the Pandas were forced to play a fifth-place game against Atlantic University Sport (AUS) champion Saint Mary's. The Green & Gold sent a message for the future as they beat the Huskies 10-0, with Sue Huculak scoring a hat trick and Lorenz adding a pair.

In 1998-99 the Pandas took another step forward. Alberta played an extended exhibition schedule before going 2-1-1 in a Canada West round-robin tournament. The conference playoffs were held in Edmonton, Feb. 11-14, and the team responded by going undefeated (5-0), including a two-goal performance from Mandy Kinjerski in a 3-2 victory over the Calgary Dinos in the gold medal game.

Making their second straight appearance at Nationals, the Pandas upset McGill 3-2 in a shootout and then beat Wilfrid Laurier 3-2 to advance to the final against the defending national champion Concordia Stingers. The Pandas lost 2-0 in the final, earning silver, clearly showing that they were closing the gap.

Freshman Lori Shupak was selected an All-Canadian and the Most Valuable Player of the 1999 Championship.

In 1999-2000 Draper and the Pandas got their gold. For the first time ever the Canada West had a regular season, and Alberta dominated going 11-1. The team featured five Conference All-Stars, with goaltender Stacey McCullough, and forwards Krysty Lorenz and Danielle Bourgeois making the First All-Star Team; defenceman Erin van de Wetering and forward Shelley Reynolds made the Second Team. Draper was selected Conference Coach of the Year and Bourgeois was Canada West Rookie of the Year. In the playoffs the Pandas beat Manitoba and Calgary to win their third straight Canada West title.

At Nationals, hosted by two-time defending champion Concordia, Alberta opened with a 4-2 win over Guelph and then caught a break when CIS Player of the Year, Corinne Swirsky from the host Stingers, got suspended for a round-robin game against the Pandas, and the Green & Gold took advantage. In one of the most exciting women's hockey games ever played, Draper's team battled to a 2-2 tie through overtime, forcing a shootout. Concordia quickly jumped ahead, scoring on its first two shots, but the Pandas rallied, scoring three straight, with team captain Huculak scoring the deciding goal to give Alberta a 3-2 shootout win. Alberta advanced to the gold medal final, where Shupak and Bourgeois each scored in a 2-0 win over McGill.

On top of the Pandas' first ever National Championship, Bourgeois was named CIS Rookie of the Year, while she and goaltender Stacey McCullough were both selected All-Canadians.

The Pandas had another great regular season in 2000-01, going 13-1-2, but dropped a key game on Oct. 28, 2000, losing 3-1 at home to Regina. The loss gave the Cougars home ice advantage in the playoffs and that turned out to be a contributing factor to Alberta not repeating as a national champion. Alberta placed four players on the Conference All-Star team (McCullough, van de Wetering, Lorenz and Shupak), but lost the conference final in two straight games at Regina. Lorenz, who scored 20 goals and had 30 points in 20 combined Canada West regular season and playoff games, was selected an All-Canadian. It would be years before Alberta lost another conference or playoff game.

In 2001-02 the Pandas came back to national prominence in a big way, going undefeated against CIS opponents in the regular season and playoffs. The Pandas posted a 16-0 regular season, and then swept Lethbridge and Regina in the playoffs to return to nationals. Surprisingly, Alberta ended up in the same pool as Concordia and Toronto, meaning the top three ranked squads in the CIS were in the same pool. After a 5-2 win over the Stingers and a close 2-1 win over Toronto the team advanced to the final against upstart Wilfrid Laurier. Alberta dominated play throughout en route to a 5-2 victory and its second CIS National Championship.

Lori Shupak, who had scored 31 points in 16 regular season games, won the Broderick Trophy as CIS Player of the Year and was named an All-Canadian. Danielle Bourgeois, who sat out the 2000-01 season, was an All-Canadian and the Most Valuable Player of the National Championship. Stacey McCullough, playing in her fifth and final season, also made the All-Canadian squad, as did former Olympian Judy Diduck who had joined the Pandas for the 2001-02 season.

Draper and the Pandas made it back-to-back in 2002-03 and once again Alberta went undefeated in the Conference regular season and playoffs. The Green and Gold went undefeated, 19-0-1, in the regular season, with Bourgeois scoring 50 points in just 17 games, and the team's goaltending duo of Andrea Thomas and Robyn Rittmaster only yielding 23 goals. The Pandas shut out Lethbridge 7-0 and 4-0 in the opening round of the playoffs and then swept Regina 3-2 and 5-2 in the Conference final at Clare Drake Arena to win their fifth Canada West Championship.

At the Nationals, which were held in Regina, the Pandas opened with a convincing 12-1 win over Saint Mary's and then got past Lethbridge 4-1 to advance to their fourth Gold medal game in five years. Alberta held a seemingly comfortable 4-2 lead over Toronto late in the game, but the Varsity Blues scored twice to force overtime. The Pandas' Taryn Fjeld scored the game-winner in overtime to lift Alberta to a 5-4 victory and their third National Championship. Shupak, who was playing in her final game, earned tournament MVP.

Alberta was shut out of the major CIS Awards, but Shupak, Bourgeois and Diduck were again named All-Canadians.

The 2003-04 season proved to be Alberta's best as the Pandas went 20-0-0 in conference play, 35-0-0 overall, set records, won several major awards and took home their third consecutive CIS Championship.

Forward Danielle Bourgeois took home CW MVP, CIS MVP and CIS Tournament MVP honours, all the while setting new CIS all-time and single-season scoring records. Bourgeois racked up 54 points (28G, 26A) in conference play, bringing her four-year total to 166 points (86G, 80A) in 65 games. She also scored seven goals at Nationals, including all four by Alberta during the semifinal and final. Coach Draper won his fourth Canada West Coach of the Year award and second CIS Coach of the Year award.

Former Concordia Stingers star Delaney Collins joined the Pandas and made an immediate impact, picking up 36 points in 13 games while missing time to try out for Canada's National Team. After winning gold with the Pandas on March 14, Collins, who was selected in February to represent Canada, joined the team in Halifax. She scored three goals in the World Championship, including the insurance goal in a 2-0 gold medal win over Team USA on April 6.

Alberta compiled an impressive 16-1-3 CW record in 2005-06, and was 27-3-3 overall after winning Nationals in Antigonish, NS. Alberta regained the #1 CIS ranking late in the season and improved on the #2 seed given to them at Nats. Draper and the Pandas have compiled a conference record of 123-4-8 (.941) and an overall record of 226-23-10 (.892). had a four-season overall winning streak end when they fell 4-1 to National Champion Wilfrid Laurier in the final on March 13, 2005, the team's first defeat since Oct. 13, 2001.

At the 2006 Championship Kristen Hagg was named a CIS First Team All-Canadian, and Tarin Podloski a Second-Teamer. Podloski won MVP of the tournament and Kristina Kother made the Tournament All-Star squad after wins over Toronto (5-0), St. FX (3-2 SO) and Laurier (2-1), playing near flawless defensive hockey anytime they secured a lead. In 2007 the Pandas posted a 21-3-0 conference record, breezed through the semifinal and defeated Manitoba at the Canada

West final, earning four straight shutouts in the CW playoffs. They went to Nationals as the No. 3 team, but swept through No. 2 Laurier and into the final against McGill, which they dominated to the tune of 4-0 for the team's sixth title in eight years. Lindsay McAlpine won CIS Player of the Year and Tournament MVP, while Rayanne Reeve and Podloski were Second Team All-Canadians. Taryn Barry was the CIS student-athlete award winner.
